Summary : Free self-fashioning in margaret atwood s fiction pdf download - this study examines the associations between dressing and storytelling in margaret atwood s fiction as cultural representations operating within a network of codes clothed bodies are often discussed by theorists as constructed performances or as fabricated texts inextricably bound up with ideology and power the clothed body often becomes a battleground in atwood s fiction as female protagonists respond to divisive cultural scripts through self-fashioning furthermore atwood seems to collapse the opposition between the material and the spiritual through clothing to consider dress a fitting metaphor for the space between the natural and the supernatural while the connections among dress body and story are visible from atwood s earliest novel forward they achieve their most unified and powerful effect in the robber bride 1993 and alias grace 1996 in these novels atwood draws upon the classical idea that the body clothes the soul to create a postmodern frame for the complex relationships among subjectivity representation voice gender and culture
